Description:

My Special Body is specifically geared toward 3-6year olds with LCHAD, TFP and VLCAD. The book showcases Andy, who shares with the reader about his “special body”. He shares his condition’s name, the foods that are good for him, the difference between medium and long-chain fats, the importance of MCT oil and medical formula in his diet, how to read nutrition labels, and how to sort through which foods he can eat. The book has engaging questions on the left for parents, with the main text on the right. There are also activities in the back of the book to continue conversation about diet as your child gets older. Note: This book discusses a lot about the importance of MCT oil in the diet and medium chain fats being good, so unfortunately, this book would not be appropriate for children with MCAD.
